By DAVID GRIFFITHS

Paradise—for fools!

STUDENT VOICE

"AUSTRALIA is a paradise for fools." Deane Wells was angry.

"She is a rich country, getting richer, while the poor countries get poorer.

"The United Nations has asked the rich countries to give at least one per cent of their gross national product to the poor countries.

"And what does Australia do? She gives 0.8 per cent in official economic aid — two-thirds of it to Papua-New Guinea."

Deane is secretary of the Community Aid Abroad group at Monash University. He was commenting on two motions passed by students:

● That the Australian Government devote at least one per cent of GNP to less prosperous countries — this amount in addition to grants to Papua-New Guinea.

● That $550 be given to help finance construction of a science block for the Mota School in Gujarat, India, the arrangements to be made by Australian Community Aid Abroad.

Deane said Mota school received money from the Indian government for running costs, but had no funds to purchase equipment.

The $550 would enable the school to purchase scientific equipment without which the students would have little chance of passing their State examinations.

"It is appropriate that an educational institution should make a sacrifice for another educational institution", Deane said.

"It shows what one community should be doing for another community.

"But we don't imagine that this gesture by Monash is going to solve any more than a few problems of a few people."

Deane was critical of the attitude of people to the problems of poor countries.

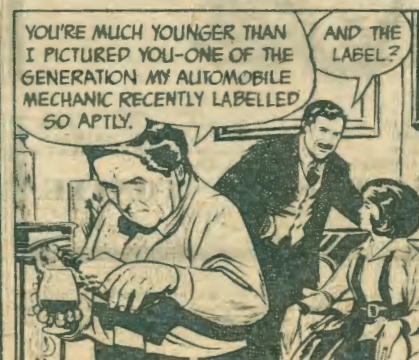

"It is hard to interest people in this sort of thing because Mota is farther than Fitzroy," he said.

"But perhaps our indifference is because we're all well-fed and people's consciences are geared to their stomachs.

"Charity doesn't begin at home. And even if it did, it needn't stop there."
